

Iliad Bookshop's January 2024 Newsletter (#84)

Hi All!

We hope your holidays were fun/peaceful/joyous. Ours were...well, let's just say my feet still hurt!

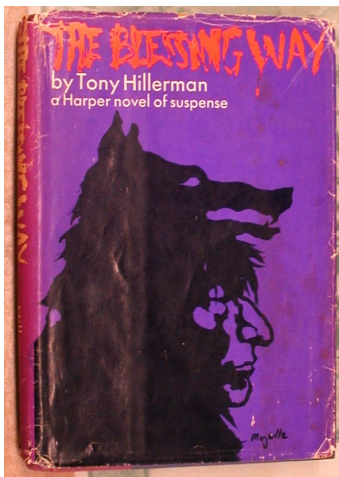

If you're a fan of NPR (like we are), you might have recently heard us on NPR's How to LA podcast talking about some of our favorite L.A.-centric books. If you missed it, click here and scroll down to the December 11, 2023 episode (the cats might have put in a cameo appearance).

We've also been doing a little work on our website recently, mainly to make it more mobile-friendly. Did you know you can search any of our rare books right on our website? We've also done some work recently to make sure our listings at the website are as accurate and current as possible; one of our 2024 goals is to add photos to more of the book listings (in the meantime, please e-mail us if you'd like to see photos of a specific book listed at the site).

Here's to a happy, peaceful, and literate New Year.

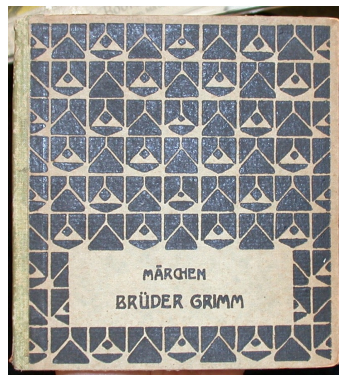

Dan, Lisa, Poul, Matt and Sean (and Zeus and Apollo)

WHAT'S IN THE SAFE?

Have you ever noticed the big safe full of books behind Iliad's front counter? We get asked about it frequently. "Is it really old?" is a common question (the answer: no, we bought it new just a few years ago). But most customers want to know what kind of books merit storage in a safe (we think of these as the rarest of our rare books), so in this column we'll pick one book every month and tell you about it. This month's book is...

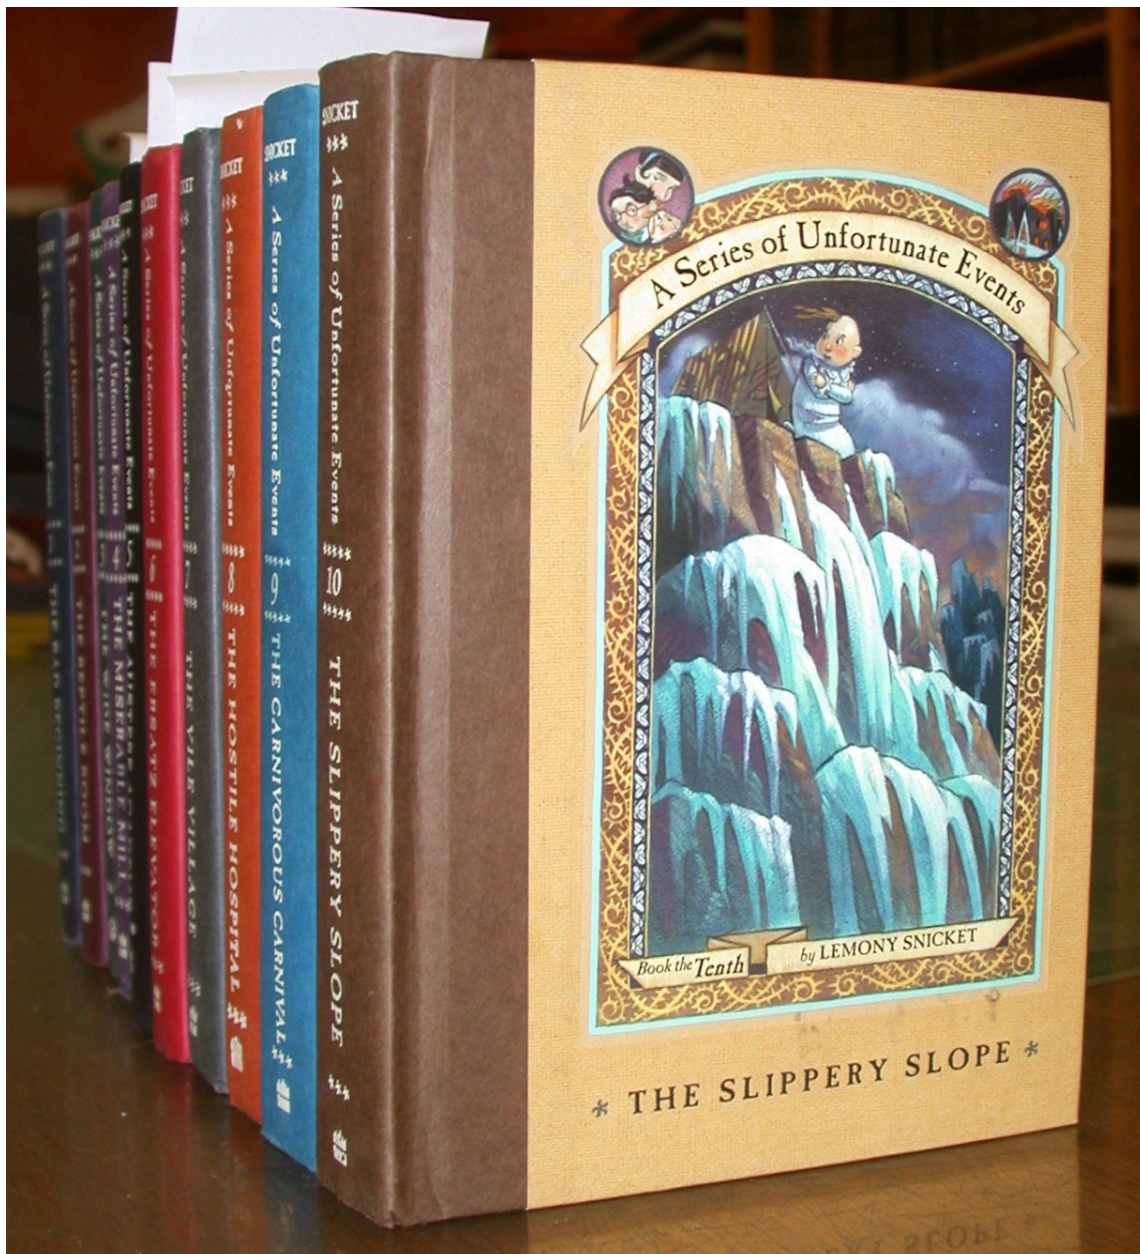

Rocky: The Complete Films

by Paul Duncan. Limited edition hardback published by Taschen in 2018. Signed by Sylvester Stallone, numbered 139/1976, includes 'Finding Rocky' print by Stallone, also includes separate facsimile notebook of Stallone's script notes for Rocky I; in clamshell case (minor wear and soiling to case, light staining to top of case); minor soiling to binding, corners slightly bumped. $510

Over at ebay, we are currently offering a set of Lemony Snicket books with some volumes signed, vintage issues of Sunset magazine, lots of plays (hey, are you contemplating putting on a production of Bat Boy: The Musical or Picasso at the Lapin Agile and you need multiple playscripts?), and more.

ZEUS AND APOLLO

The boys are grabbing lots of those long winter naps...

We'd love to include your photos in our newsletter! Feel free to send to info@iliadbooks.com , let us know that it's okay to use the photo, and we'll include it in a future newsletter.

If you need more photos/videos of Zeus and Apollo, or any of Iliad's past felines, please visit our Pet Gallery.
